Wine OF THE MONTH

OUR EXPERT PRESENTS... WINES FOR STEAK

Red wine pairs beautifully with the smoky taste of grilled steak. For a leaner cut like sirloin, a medium-bodied Pinot Noir or Barbera is a great pairing choice. Richer pieces of meat, including rib-eyes and T-bones, call for bolder varietals, such as Cabernet Sauvignon or Malbec.

HOPPY BEERS AT

Summer is beer season, when hoppy craft brews, like IPAs, take centre stage in the cottage cooler. Ever wonder what “hoppy” actually means?

“When more hops are added to a beer during the brewing process, it has a higher number of International Bitterness Units, or IBU, which results in a bolder, more intense taste than lighter styles, like lagers,” says Jennifer, a Product Consultant in Ottawa. That “hoppiness” is nuanced too, as brewers experiment with different varieties of hops to impart a wide range of flavours. “In the past, hops were typically described as mild, floral and spicy,” says our expert. But now they are known to impart characteristics as far-ranging as tropical fruit, gooseberry, mango and even coconut! Here's to hops!

UNDERSTANDING IBU

The International Bittering Unit (IBU) listed on your beer label is a chemical measurement of the number of bittering compounds that beer contains. In general, the higher the IBU, the hoppier and the more pleasantly bitter your beer will taste. Hoppy beers tend to ring in at 40 to 60 IBU.
